Streets of Fire is a 1984 American neo-noir rock musical film directed by Walter Hill and co-written by Hill and Larry Gross. The film is described in its opening credits and posters as "A Rock & Roll Fable" and is a mix of various movie genres with elements of retro-1950s woven into then-current 1980s themes. The film grossed $8 million in North America, against a production budget of $14.5 ...

This caused perhaps the worst backlash of all the alterations made to the original trilogy from outraged fans, although it was technically not George Lucas' fault: when submitting the movie to the MPAA, they had insisted he put it in there in order for the movie to keep its PG rating. To appease the fans, the shooting scene was edited for a third time for the 2004 DVD release, so that both ...
