It has drowned the most heavenly ecstasies of religious fervor, of chivalrous enthusiasm, of philistine sentimentalism, in the icy water of egotistical calculation. It has resolved personal worth into exchange value, and in place of the numberless indefeasible chartered freedoms, has set up that single, unconscionable freedom—Free Trade. In one word, for exploitation, veiled by religious and ...

Given what Max Weber called the intimate relationship between religion and sexuality, the role of the lingam and yoni in India, or of yin and yang in China, as a structuring form of cosmic polarity based on the male and female principles, is perhaps more comprehensible. By way of maithuna or sacred intercourse, Tantra developed a whole tradition of sacred sexuality, which led in its merger ...

A “contract” can be defined as an agreement between two parties which obliges each party to do or not to do a certain thing. It is an agreement with promises of delivery, but also with stipulations and penalty clauses. In the time of Moses God made such a contract with the people (nation) of Israel, although the Bible refers to it as as “God’s covenant”.

Every ideology requires an executive and this bureaucracy imposes the tyranny of countless rules, laws and regulations which remove our freedoms, while on the other hand they provide monstrous favors to a few. Living in an interconnected sphere, we have absolutely no need for ideologies. We have the sun to provide perpetual sustenance and vitamin D for our immune system, the family to provide ...

Stars, meteors, and heavenly lights allegedly signaled the birth of many man-gods, including Jesus Christ, Yu, Lao-tzu, various Roman Caesars, and Buddha (see Gillooly). This parallels the strange events that surround the births of purely mythological figures, such as Osiris in Syria, Trinity in Egypt, and Mithra in Persia. Virgin birth, and a reverence and obsession with virginity, was a ...
